

(Download free ebook) Rangers at War: LRRPs in Vietnam

Rangers at War: LRRPs in Vietnam

Von Shelby L. Stanton

Download PDF / ePub / DOC / audiobook / ebooks*

DOWNLOAD

+

READ ONLINE

Produktinformation -Verkaufsrang: #1574823 in eBooksVerffentlicht am: 2011-07-06Erscheinungsdatum:
2011-07-06File Name: B004JHYSEY | File size: 20.Mb

Von Shelby L. Stanton : Rangers at War: LRRPs in Vietnam before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Rangers at War: LRRPs in Vietnam:

KundenrezensionenHilfreichste Kundenrezensionen1 von 1 Kunden fanden die folgende Rezension hilfreich.
BORINGVon Ein KundeDon't waste your money! This book is nothing but a college professor's bravado about how he has researched 'all the fact's'. While I do not doubt the fact as recorded, I found this book extremely tedious and boring with regards to "x company x battailion, x platoon..." I much prefer the story of someone who was actually there. If you are looking for exact dates and technical details then this book is for you. If...you want to see what life was really like as a LRRP then I recommend a book such as "Charlie Rangers". 1 von 1 Kunden fanden die folgende Rezension hilfreich. Well worth the price! Von Ein Kunde The previous reviewer who believes that this book was written by "some college professor" displays his own ignorance. The author, Shelby L. Stanton, was a decorated Special Forces officer who served in Vietnam. Trust me, the author knows what he's talking about, and though this may not be an exciting book, it is worth the price. 0 von 0 Kunden fanden die folgende Rezension hilfreich. Highland Rangers Von John Serrano Company K team 3-C I was there and in the same Company K. Sgt. Kenneth Hess was a good friend of mine, as well as the other team mates. The Montagnard (Ju Hmok) that was killed by friendly fire was right. Pfc. Nathaniel Irving was killed in a way that only a NVA would kill like a (Butcher) yes he was butchered. The reason we didn't get any radio contact, was because a grenade had landed between Sgt. Hess's neck and the radio. That's why we had lost radio contact. If you knew the NVA and their ways. You would know that they never put anyone in a grave. The part about Pfc. Don A. MacPhail was right. He was a POW and then returned in 1973. The Montagnard (Ju Hmok) was also my scout. I had let him stay behind because he had just gotten married. but they needed a scout so they took Ju Hmok. Sgt. Hess only had two weeks to go before he was to go home. Of all the things that happened over there, that I won't forget and also what had happened to team 3-C. Submitted by Sgt. John Serrano

Kurzbeschreibung "Shelby Stanton has emerged as the leading military historian on the war in Southeast Asia." COL. CHARLES B. MacDONALD Author of COMPANY COMMANDER and A TIME FOR TRUMPETS One of the toughest and most challenging jobs in Vietnam was to be a U.S. Army Ranger running Long Range Reconnaissance Patrols. The LRRPs took volunteers only, and training was designed to weed out all but the best. What emerged was an elite outfit of warriors in the finest sense of the word. Now Shelby Stanton, renowned military authority on the war in Southeast Asia, presents the first and only definitive history of the LRRPs and the U.S. Army Rangers in Vietnam. They're all here: the Screaming Eagle Patrollers, Cochise Raiders, Charlie Rangers, Cobra Lightning Patrollers, and more. From the Paperback edition. From Library Journal This history of American combat reconnaissance units in the Vietnam War, the author's seventh book dealing in whole or in part with U.S. ground forces in Southeast Asia, will add to Stanton's growing reputation as a leading interpreter of that conflict's military aspects. Here, he covers the evolution and experiences of rangers from each of the larger American units (1st Infantry Division, 101st Airborne Division, etc.), including selected combat narratives for each. Reconnaissance troops, along with the tunnel rats and Medevac crews, remain unsung heroes of Vietnam. No other book to date has even attempted such an overview of how they responded to the tactical problems posed by Southeast Asia. Recommended for Vietnam War collections.- John R. Vallely, Siena Coll. Lib., Loudonville, N.Y. Copyright 1992 Reed Business Information, Inc. Pressestimmen "Shelby Stanton has emerged as the leading military historian on the war in Southeast Asia." Col. Charles B. Macdonald Author of Company Commander and A Time for Trumpets